

THE FACILITATOR LAB: Curriculum

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

FACILITATOR Lab

The Facilitator Lab was developed to support anyone who is interested in facilitating where they can explore and stretch their skills without an audience.

As we go through this program together, you will be an active participant in creating both the content and your learning. This isn't a workshop where you only sit back, listen, and take notes. This is a lab – where we pose a question, generate a dialogue, test out some things, and challenge our conclusions.

This program covers key aspects such as impactful facilitation skills, innovative content presentation, diverse communication techniques, scalable session templates (1-8 hours), practical skill application, participant and instructor feedback, and bonus insider tips from TeamCorker.

HOW IT Works

This program is delivered in an Online Community Cohort format. You will be learning alongside others with Corker Collective Facilitators.

COMPONENTS

MODULE 1: FUNDAMENTALS

- + What makes a great facilitator?
- + What do your people need in order to retain/recall/enjoy it all?

MODULE 2: LEARNER & PARTICIPANT NEEDS

- + How do I plan and structure my content and conversations for the learner?
- + Identify the learner's needs and how best to engage them.

MODULE 3: FRAMEWORK & STRATEGIES

- + How do I plan and structure my content and conversations in the time I have, and with the content I need to deliver?

MODULE 4: FEEDBACK + NEXT STEPS

- + What skills do I need to work on and how do I handle situations when things go wrong?

BETWEEN Sessions

Before each session, you will be requested to:

- + Read an assigned article
- + Come to the next session with questions, examples of how you are applying what you are learning, and approaches you would like to share with the group
